

Why are `.ascii` and `.asciiiz` always followed by `.algin`, while `.word` not?
Because `.word` are 4 bytes, therefore anything that follow is usually aligned if the `.word` address is well aligned. While strings or sequences of chars are arbitrary in length.