

Assembly language's four main components are:

- Comments : used to insert text that describes ideas, doesn't compile
- Directives : used to pass instructions at the assembler
- Labels : used to name regions of code
- Instructions : assembly instructions